PHILOSOPHERS PLAN SEMINAR

Current Problems Will Be Discussed by Seniors In Fenwick Hall

O'BOYLE TO DEFEND TWO ETHICS THESES

On Saturday morning, March 7, the Feast of St. Thomas Aquinas, the Aquinas Circle will hold its final meeting of the year in Fenwick Hall.

JOHN W. O'BOYLE, '36

No friend of Communism . . .

The gathering, to be in the form of a seminar on communism and like problems of the day, will be held during the first and second periods of the morning. All seniors will be excused from classes of these two periods and will attend in gowns. Mem-

Varsity Defeats R. I. State Team

Last Friday evening, Kimball Hall Auditorium was the scene of a Holy Cross forensic victory, resulting from a unanimous decision of the judges against the debating stalwarts of Rhode Island State. The question, a current topic of controversy among critics of government, was: "Resolved, that Congress should be permitted to over-ride, by a two-thirds vote, any decision of the Supreme Court declaring a law unconstitutional".

Holy Cross assumed the negative position and was represented by Edmond D. Benard, '36, and Bernard J. Malone, '36, while their rivals from Rhode Island were Donald O'Brien and Gilbert Ruest. The board of judges included Dr. Anthony J. Karpowich, Mr. John P. Maloney, postal examiner, and Mr. John T. Quinn, insurance adjuster, all of Worcester. James A. Kinney, '36, presided as chairman.

Students Begin Annual Novena

Devotions to St. Francis Xavier Start in Chapel Tomorrow Night

Beginning tomorrow, Wednesday, March 4, and continuing to Thursday, March 12, the annual novena of grace in honor of St. Francis Xavier, will be conducted in Memorial Chapel. Services for the boarders will be held every evening at 6.30 P.M., under the direction of Rev. John J. Reed, S.J., dean of discipline, while Rev. David J. Moran, S.J., will conduct the day-students' services every morning at 11.45 A.M.

This novena in honor of St. Francis Xavier is observed throughout the Universal Church from the fourth of March to the twelfth, the anniversary of the canonization of the beloved

CUB DEBATERS TO FACE B. C.

The Sophomore-Freshman Debating Society will meet their traditional rivals of Boston College in their first intercollegiate debate of the season on Thursday, March 12; before the State Teachers College at Salem, Mass. The question will be "Resolved, that the Roosevelt administration deserves the confidence of the American people. Holy Cross will uphold the negative. The members of the team are: Constantine W. Akstens, '38, William Collins, '38, and William Schultz, '39. Bernard M. Kane, '38, will be alternate. An interesting angle of this debate is that the B.C. varsity will uphold the affirmative of the same question against the Harvard varsity later in the season.

The contestants in the annual prize debate, as selected on February 18, are Kane, Akstens, and Thomas A. Power, the sophomore representation, and John B. Yates, William E. Schultz,

Essay Subjects Are Announced

Seven Prizes To Be Given In Annual Competition Among Students

An announcement made this week by the Office of the Dean lists seven prizes which will be offered during the present academic year for the best essays on philosophical, scientific and historical subjects. As has been the custom in the past years, the essays on religion and philosophy will be limited to the members of the senior class; the others are open to the student body.

Last year, the various winners in the prize essay competition were Philip R. Byrne, '35, who received the Strain Philosophy Medal; Michael O. Driscoll, '36, won the Crompton Scientific Medal. The essay of John J.

Economists Hear Career Lecture

On last Wednesday afternoon, in Kimball Hall Auditorium, the Holy Cross Economics Club presented the second speaker in its series of lecturers, Mr. Harry W. Wallis, well known accountant, who addressed an audience of approximately two hundred students.

After an introduction by Floyd C. Amoresano, '36, president of the club, Mr. Wallis discussed at length the vocation of accounting, emphasizing particularly the three necessary prerequisites, education, personality and ability. At the conclusion of his lecture, the speaker answered the many questions put by the students concerning many phases and problems of modern business accounting systems.

At the next meeting of the club, in Fenwick Hall tomorrow evening, Paul F. Brabazon, '36, will deliver a paper on "The United States Banking System".

the right to private property. Objections to these theses will be presented by William L. Parks, Jr., '36, and John D. Donoghue, '36.

Two other papers are scheduled to be presented. "The Ideal Christian State" will be outlined by John F. O'Leary, '36, while Robert W. Larrow, '36, will discuss the papal encyclical "Quadragesimo Anno". This encyclical, by His Holiness, Pius XI, deals with the Catholic solution to contemporary labor problems, and is one of the most important of the last century.

An original ode to His Holiness will be read by Michael O. Driscoll, '36. Driscoll will pay poetic tribute to the work of the present pontiff in the interests of social and economic justice.

Musical interludes are also scheduled. "Adoro Te Devote", written by St. Thomas Aquinas, will be sung by seven senior Glee Club members, who will follow it with the "Ave Maria" of Witte. Edwin F. Murphy, '36, will sing Caesar Franck's "Panis Angelicus".

Second honors were awarded aequo to Edward B. O'Connell and Philip R. Monahan, with averages of 95.8%. Monahan is a graduate of South High School of Worcester, and O'Connell of Derby High School, Derby, Conn. Both men have been consistently among the class leaders in scholastic fields.

SCIENTISTS TO VIEW MOTION PICTURES

In Kimball Hall, on Wednesday evening, March 4, the Scientific Society will present a five-reel talking motion picture, "Oil Films on Water". Dr. Irving Langmuir is the narrator in the film and had charge of its production. Dr. Langmuir is connected with the laboratories of the General Electric Co. in Schenectady and is one of the country's leading scientists.

Due to the special chapel services of the meeting scheduled for the evening of February 27 was cancelled.

Hellenes Invade Physics Sanctum To Hear Of The Woes Of Oedipus

Adrian P. Driggs, '38, Lectures on Greek Tragedy In Strange Surroundings For Cross and Scroll

Putting the Physics Lecture Hall in Lower Alumni to a somewhat loftier use, the Cross and Scroll Club invaded that sanctum of scientists last Thursday evening and violated its walls by the finely-attended audition of an illustrated lecture on the Oedipus Tyrannus of Sophocles. Adrian P. Driggs, lecturer, was the chief violator of the mundane stronghold.

After unforeseen difficulties had postponed the invasion of the shrine of the "adorers of practicalities" from Wednesday night until the following evening, the Greek students girded their togas high and descended to hear of the woes of Oedipus — to the woe of the Science Department. The best projection machine of the Physics laboratory was appropriated by the invading Greeks. Slides from both the Holy Cross and Harvard presentations of the drama of Sophocles were used by Driggs to illustrate the greatness of the ancient tragedian.

At several points in the proceedings, discordant noises smote the ears of the lecturer. The Greek students were experimenting with those unique chairs which so enhance the amphitheatre and offer such novel amusement to tyro Einsteins. Those with a mechanical turn of mind had discovered the secret of collapsing the arms.

But the slides continued to slide to the enjoyment of all. Each figure was explained by the lecturer as it appeared on the silver screen, so willingly lent by the scientists. Driggs, by the way, was the epitome of fearless nonchalance as he boldly surveyed the screen and coldly described the heart-rending troubles of the tragic hero.

Signs of a revolt from an excessive desire to have such playthings as those chairs caused alarms among the classicists as they were filing out of the play-room. Chief among the revolutionists was T. Stephen O'Keefe, '38. Although an officer of high trust in the society, even he was lured by the tempting devices bedecking the room. He was dragged out without serious mishap to propriety.

Next week the Hellenic society will again retreat to their haven in O'Kane and hear a debate on the war policy of Demosthenes.

CLUB REVEALS EASTER PLANS

Metropolitan Group Name
Committee to Manage
Dance Details

The annual Easter Dance of the Metropolitan Club will be held April 13, Easter Monday night, on the Hotel Pennsylvania Roof. The affair is under the direction of a six-man committee of seniors, composed of Edward J. Kenneally, Thomas R. Newman, A. Norbert Renz, Thomas J. Dobbins, Jr., Warren L. Sausville, and William P. Sirignano.

Within a week, Gerald T. Kelly, '36, president, will announce officially the orchestra to be engaged. It will be either George Hall, who features Dolly Dawn as vocalist, or Frank Dailey of Cleveland. The dance is expected to be well attended by members of the Metropolitan Club itself, alumni, and some New Englanders who will travel to New York.

Tomahawk Staff Gains High Rank

The release of the Honor Roll for the first semester reveals the interesting fact that the majority of the TOMAHAWK staff was listed. Of the members listed on the masthead, seven attained an average over 90. Edmond D. Benard, '36, Robert W. Larrow, '36, Francis S. Rossiter, '37, John E. Newman, '38, Edward J. Duncan, '37, Richard J. Burner, '36, Michael O. Driscoll, '36, and John J. Wiest, '37. Six members were included in the lower list, William R. Phelan, '38, Daniel J. Ferry, '36, Charles T. Moore, '36, Richard D. Byrne, '37, John W. T. Magan, Jr., '36, and Joseph P. McManus, '38.

Sophomore reporters attaining honors were, William T. Collins, Adrian P. Driggs, William A. McCormack, Joseph F. Marbach, William M. Reagan and T. Stephen O'Keefe, who were all on the second roll. The Freshmen reporters placed three on the 90% list, John J. Daunt, John T. Schriver and Robert E. Moline, and three on the 85% group, John J. O'Neill, Stephen L. Daly and Frederick O. Floberg.

WORC. DANCE HEADS NAMED

Donahue, O'Connell, Donoghue, O'Leary, Rourke, McCafferty Chosen

Preliminary plans for the Easter Dance of the Worcester Undergraduate Club have been made in the appointment of an executive committee. James Spellane, '36, chairman, has chosen the group, composed of James W. Donahue, '37, John P. O'Connell, '36, John F. O'Leary, '36, Foster M. McCafferty, '36, John D. Donoghue, '36, and John B. Rourke, '36. With the able assistance of these men, the chairman will make the major arrangements for the affair.

Three prominent orchestras are being given strong consideration, those of Dick McGinley, Dol Brissette, and Ed Murphy.

"SULPHUR" IS SUBJECT

Philip M. Nigro, B. S., '36, was the principal speaker at the last Chemistry Seminar. Choosing for his subject "The Oxygen Acids of Sulphur", he dwelt in particular upon sulphuric acid and the polythionic acids.

The various methods of preparation of sulphuric acid were extensively discussed, together with the advantages and disadvantages found in each method.

The polythionic acids, first noticed in a solution prepared by Wackenroder, were described by the speaker.

saint. This year marks the three hundred and thirteenth anniversary.

The custom was originated in 1633 when Father Marcellus Mastrelli, S.J., having been seriously wounded, was miraculously saved from an agonizing death through the intercession of St. Francis Xavier whom the Father had chosen as his patron. As Father Mastrelli was about to die, St. Francis appeared to him, told him to apply the relic of the true Cross to his injured head and then assured the priest who was now miraculously cured, that all who would earnestly ask his intercession with God for nine days would contribute to their salvation.

Nothing is ever perfect

FOR 1936 we offer what we think is the finest car in Ford history. But no car is ever considered perfect and finished as far as Ford engineers are concerned. Once a year we introduce new models—since that is the custom—but constantly we make improvements in our car, for that is our lifelong habit. We don't wait for Show time to make a better car.

Proof of this is the present Ford V-8. In basic design it is almost the same as when introduced four years ago. But in performance and economy there is no comparison between the 1932 and 1936 cars.

Ford engineers do not work with yearly models in mind. The Ford Motor Company does not wait for introductory dates to incorporate improvements. As soon as exhaustive tests prove that a new material is better, into production it goes. When new machining processes or new inspection methods are proved superior, in they go also.

The purchasers get the advantage of all improvements as soon as we are certain that they are improvements.

Essay on Color Hormone Feature

Edward F. Olchowski, '39,
Has Treatise In Second
Article on Halogen

Two papers feature the February issue of the Hormone, which appeared during the past week. "Color Reactions as a Means of Identification" are discussed by John P. Geary, '36, while Edward F. Olchowski, '39, contributes "Up from the Sea in Ships".

In his paper, Geary treats first of the important distinctions made in every-day life that are possible only through the medium of color. Many medical diagnoses are then shown to be founded upon color. The writer points out that, besides the diseases which cause pronounced colorations of the skin, such ailments as pernicious anemia, various sorts of kidney trouble, and sugar diabetes may be detected with simple color tests.

"Up from the Sea in Ships" deals with the various members of the halogen family, telling of the discovery, development, and principal uses of each. Four of these, fluorine, chlorine, bromine, and iodine, are contained in the sea. The possibilities of the fifth, the recently discovered alabamine, have not yet been fully explored.

An editorial, "Chief Justice Taney and Science", and the news of the Chemists are also contained in the issue.

Healy, Dumas in Debate Victory

Former Awarded Place in Quarterly Clash for Dean's Prize

Last Thursday evening, the Senior-Junior Debating Society discussed the question: "Resolved, that the Constitution of the United States should be amended to meet modern economic demands". The affirmative side was upheld by James R. Gilson, '36, and John W. T. Magan, Jr., '36. The negative, maintained by Dana G. Dumas, '36, and James F. Healy, '36, was awarded the decision by a close margin. Healy was chosen best speaker of the evening. Following the debate, there was an open floor discussion in which many who wanted to try out for the radio and lecture debates took part.

Next Friday, March 6, the Dean's Quarterly Prize Debate will be held on the subject: "Resolved, that this house deplores the entrance of women into business and professional life". The negative side of the question will be supported by James P. Dolen, '36, and Samuel S. Mullin, '37; the affirmative by John J. Kenneally, '36, and James F. Healy, '36. Each participant qualified for this competition through selection as best speaker in the second quarter debates.

HERR HITLER'S "UNITY"

Just four weeks ago, the TOMAHAWK quoted New York Times news reports to the effect that a "vote" was being held in the city of Munich, with all parents required to indicate whether they would send their children to the secular schools or to the "Confessional" (Catholic) schools for the 1936 term. Before the "free and open registration", there were 35,000 pupils in the Confessional schools and 19,000 in the State institutions.

Quoting the New York Times, the "vote" was held under these conditions:

"The Catholics, who oppose the secularization of schools, have not been allowed to issue pamphlets, hold public meetings or use the press or radio in defense of their stand.

"The Nazi party, however, has mobilized printing press and radio and has held hundreds of public meetings in which the confessional schools were attacked and the secular school system praised. Pressure has been placed on civil servants, who have been told that their positions depend upon registering their children for the Nazi secular schools.

"For good measure, it is now proposed that storm troopers visit every home in Munich tomorrow morning to determine whether the householder intends to register his children for a Confessional or a secular school . . .

"Since every German citizen directly or indirectly is dependent for his right to earn a living upon the favor of the government or the party, it will take a courageous father deliberately to give reasons for not doing what the party functionaries expect."

The results are in. Next year the Confessional schools will have 19,000 pupils and the State schools, 35,000. The Ministry of Propaganda has hailed the outcome of its drive as a great victory for "unity".

The only unity demonstrated in the vicious campaign the Third Reich is waging against religious education is a determination to use all resources to crush out religious opposition to the State, which is, in the German "National Religion", not merely God's representative, but God.

When a "registration" is held under conditions that amount to persecution, it is not surprising that the Confessional schools should lose thousands of students. A truer indication of the real religious convictions of the people of Munich is the fact that the parents of 19,000 children should refuse to yield to secular regimentation even under such threats.

In the sympathy for the highly-publicized plight of the Jews in Germany, Americans are inclined to forget that the most courageous champion of religious liberty in Herr Hitler's domain is the Catholic Church. The German Catholics, standing on the firm grounds of a Vatican Concordat signed in 1933 by Hitler himself, are not prepared to yield, even if they should stand alone, to a state which seeks to impose racial religion by a penal persecution which hides under the name of "law".

BARROWS was what might aptly be termed the "average student". His title to "student" rested on the fact that he attended classes at the College on the Hill, his "averageness" lay in his empty pocketbook and his superiority complex.

He stood now in front of his mirror, carefully settling his tie. A well-padded letter from home had temporarily raised him somewhat above the average and he was about to celebrate. He would call for her at eight, dine, and dance her at the town's leading hotel, drive her home in the car he had borrowed for the occasion, and be back at college by twelve o'clock. Everything was to be done right tonight, even to the getting in on time.

Yes, it was to be a good, sensible evening. He and Annabelle would have a quiet dinner off in a corner by themselves, dance when the floor was not crowded with freshmen, and spend the rest of the time in intellectual and uplifting conversation.

When he took her home he would say good-night disinterestedly. Then he would drive back to school, check in on time, hang his clothes up carefully, and look over a little Psych before retiring. (Considering the above definition of the term, he is still an average student.)

He donned his hat and coat and set out, smug and complacent in his conviction that a good intelligent time could be had without breaking any rules.

Everything went off exactly as ordained. The food was delicious . . . the music, a tonal background to a conversation that sparkled. Annabelle (unusual girl, Annabelle) had outdone herself. She had even waxed enthusiastic over his personal interpretation of Browning. The only flaw in the whole evening had occurred when he said to her, disinterestedly, good-night . . . she seemed disinterested too.

But, all in all, it had been a very satisfactory and enjoyable evening. Barrows wriggled comfortably inside his coat and settled down behind the wheel. He had a good quarter of an hour to make the Hill . . . plenty of

MOONLIGHT FANTASY

In a valley bright with the fleeing moon
She rides on a midnight charger.

In a gust of wind a black cloak flies
'Round the Beautiful Lady with Love in Her Eyes.

In the dark of an oak a herdsman sleeps,
He wakes at the hoofs' soft patter;
He looks with dread, but not with surprise
At the Beautiful Lady with Love in Her Eyes.

A merchant slips thru the moon-dark shadows
Fear falls from his head like water;
She see his fear and can not but despise,—
This Beautiful Lady with Love in Her Eyes.

A student sleeps on a stoop in the town,
A day and a night has he sought her;
A life and a dream must he realize
In the Beautiful Lady with Love in Her Eyes.

What's worse than finding demerits in one's P. O. box on returning from a holiday vacation? Two sophomores at M.I.T. came back from a weekend to find an old Ford truck standing in the center of their fourth-floor room, brought piecemeal and assembled there by prankster fraternity mates.

Rumor hath it that a girl named Matha Finance was chosen queen of the First Annual Winter Carnival.

Martyrs to worthy causes must look up to the waiter who is dispatched canteen-wards to buy ice cream every time blueberry pie is served at his table.

When bigger and better ski jumps are made, Dick Boner won't make them. That one out in the forest behind school looked like a deer-run, and it must have been an inebriated deer that did the running.

Rhode Island Stated the question and Holy Crossed them up with the result that has been constant for years, the home team winning the debate.

The height of ingratitude: The lad who was invited to an after-debate luncheon and stole a pot full of coffee for his room-mate.

Masterpiece of Understatement: Justin MacCarthy, after viewing the Rembrandt exhibit — "Rembrandt? O sure, he's O. K."

Don O'Sullivan is worrying again. He says his brother wants to be an aviator, his mother wants him to be a doctor and his father plans to enter him in the diplomatic service. We told Don not to worry. You see, his brother is only six years old.

We're just waiting for that first newstory that begins: "The crack of the bat, the sound of horsehide plunking into leather, the call of the diamond is here, and with it comes Spring!"

Dick Boner sent to Sears-Roebuck for two cars of snow to be delivered on last Friday, but the train was sidetracked somewhere and the Winter Carnival had to get along with the defrostings of Kimball Hall refrigerators.

Garbardine suits and NEW white shoes are being unearthed by the lads, being a sure indication of the approach of Spring.

HOW MUCH DO HOLY CROSS STUDENTS EAT? OUR DILIGENT REPORTER FINDS THE ANSWER

Behind Those Mysterious Doors in Kimball Hall Refectory

Most of our students are but vaguely aware of the manifold operations involved in the preparation and service of food in the Kimball Hall Refectory. In an effort to clarify the general student mind on this subject, the TOMAHAWK reporter with all the alertness of a trained statistician, has delved deeply into the vitamin and calorie-producing machinations of the refectory staff. The amazing and most embarrassing facts about to be unfolded were revealed to the TOMAHAWK reporter by Chef Selo Pini who, under the direction of George B. Moran, manager of Kimball Hall, has charge of the preparation of food in the large kitchens and bakery. Mr. Pini was associated with Mr. Moran in the hotel business.

Before the eight hundred dining students of the college can sit down to breakfast any one of these fine mornings, a kitchen staff of 42, plus a legion of 75 waiters are on hand. On the tables, 80 of which are used, is placed a veritable army of silverware, crockery and glass, there being more than 7,000 dishes and drinking glasses used at each meal, 7,000 shining pieces of silverware and 800 napkins.

The kitchen is equipped with the most modern and efficient culinary machinery on the market. The doughnuts which grace the breakfast table several days each week are made in two giant machines which produce just 30 of those luscious "circles" per minute, while the toast is the output of two enormous electric toasters at the rate of 1200 slices an hour. When students "rush" the roast de jour, pour gravy on their potatoes, or when

That robin Martin McKneally claims to have seen turned out to be a sparrow that was hit with a tomato.

News of the Week: The Senior who got six demerits for checking in half an hour early last Saturday night.

they sip their soup, they are partaking of the contents of one of five "steam jackets", each of which has a capacity of one hundred gallons. The tons of meats and vegetables are preserved in nine gigantic ice boxes, hygienically refrigerated. Three fast-working meat slicers carve the roast beef, lamb, ham, etc.

Besides these remarkable and almost unbelievable figures on the work done by the various cooking apparatus, there

That with news of the southern baseball camps filling the sporting pages, mention should be made of Loyola II. Planning for the intramural season far in advance, they have signed up a fine squad of regulars. Most of them are dollar-a-year-men, however, and there are still a few holdouts. Manager A. Norbert Renz has threatened to trade Joe Kaicher, stellar third baseman, to O'Kane III if his contract is not in soon.

That more verse has been written by our "Purple" editor, which we might as well publish, since he never will:

*"My verse is trite, my prose is bad;
The 'Purple' drained what wit I had.
Columns are penned by fools like me
And calmly cut by E. D. B."*

That for a fine classification of possibilities, we commend Herb Callahan, of the Beaven roommates, Callahan and Callaghan, who rose in his philosophy class to designate a trans-Atlantic bridge as a "remote" one.

That Jim Kinney, who combines philosophy with a few Latin and Greek courses, bemoans the fact that psychology texts are written only in rather prosaic English. And we can only comment — "Too bad!"

That our remark last week about Middlebury College aroused Russ White's ire. We suspect, however, that he may have been prejudiced by his recent visit to their winter carnival.

are these startling statistics on the amount of food consumed.

At the three daily meals, 200 gallons of milk are imbibed, 1200 pounds of meat eaten, and 125 pounds of butter are spread on the 300 loaves of bread and 2,000 rolls or muffins. If cocoa is served, 30 pounds, the equivalent of 65 gallons, are required, but when coffee is the fare, 65 pounds are percolated in two enormous coffee urns with a capacity of 60 gallons each.

In regard to the particular meats consumed at any one meal, lamb chops hold the numeral lead with 1,600. Eight hundred pounds of roast beef are served at a single dinner and 400 pounds of steak. A pound of turkey, chicken, and duck is allotted to each diner, thus 800 pounds of those popular birds are welcomed every Sunday. It's only fair to mention here the illustrious kin of the chicken, that little oval which helped Columbus prove the world was round — namely the egg. Ninety-five dozen of these are used at a meal.

Among the desserts, ice cream and pies are the most prominent. Thirty gallons of ice cream and 175 pies are the amounts required to appease the 800 diners that people the hall at a meal. The ice cream is frozen in a 20-gallon automatic freezer.

Over half a ton of potatoes are cooked daily. To be exact, 1,200 pounds. As a fitting tribute to one of the most popular foods enjoyed at the Cross, we have left the robust corn fritter until last. Sixteen hundred of his kind appear at a luncheon.

W. M. R., '38.

That we found it hard to believe ourselves, but the "Purple" office contains one typewriter, no quills, multitudes of files, and plenty of exchanges. No wonder their literary quality is so high.

That in case you see Ed Benard wearing a benignant look for the next few days, remember that the TOMAHAWK put out a ten-page issue.

That by the time we go to press there should be a new Casino champion battling his way up from the ranks in Loyola. And the competition is plenty hot.

Art is a dreadfully serious thing, if the attitude of most of the visitors to the Worcester Museum's Rembrandt exhibition the day we were there is any indication. Not only serious, but grim.

"The Supper at Emmaus" was surrounded by a crowd of patrons who looked suspiciously at one another every once in a while to see if others were pretending to "get more out of" the picture than they were. Solemn-faced little girls clung to school teachers' hands and confided that "they had memorized all the things 'Lucretia' was wearing, but, please, why was she pulling the rope?"

There was the inevitable rule-proving exception. We happened to be wandering about in the modern art rooms when one active old lady tripped over to her companion and called gaily, "Come, Grace, what do you say we have a dash in and look at Rembrandt?"

Lillian Rock, speaking to a business women's luncheon in New York City:

" . . . and any time after 1950 we may be saying 'Madame President' (of the United States) and liking it. In this event, her husband, if any, would be the 'First Gentleman'."

He would, naturally, take social precedence over the husband of the Speakeress of the House. . . .

By the time the car began to swing into that jolting series of curves which denote its emergence from the Hudson tube to the Jersey side of the river, the stout man in the brown coat was in a wonderful humor.

Perhaps he had lingered just a trifle too long at one of Manhattan's thousand bars, but not long enough to slip on over the rosy edge of life into its more morose depths.

His jokes weren't very good. They sounded a little reminiscent of Town Hall and Camel Caravan, but they had certainly never been retailed with more zest even by their prehistoric authors.

The car was packed with commuters, who had abandoned their studied blankness for the past ten minutes or so to laugh with the stout man. His main aide, though, was a jolly-looking woman across the aisle, who had been good-humoredly leading up to his jokes with the camaraderie which some people find in a subway jam.

Suddenly the humorist stopped, and gazed at the woman in awe-stricken silence. When he spoke again, it was to the entire car—and with such a light in his eyes as must have marked an Old Testament Prophet.

"Look!"—(It sounded like a victory trumpet)—"We're talkin' to each other! THE DEPRESSION MUST BE OVER!"

FRESHMEN AND SOPHOMORES

All Sophomores and Freshmen who are desirous of joining the Business Staff of the TOMAHAWK are requested to be present at a brief but important meeting at 7 o'clock on Thursday evening at the TOMAHAWK Office in Lower Loyola. The meeting is called to procure candidates for the Circulation Department and the Advertising Board.

LECTURE DEBATERS OPEN RADIO SERIES

Kennelly, '37, Kane, '38, Oppose Kinney, '36, Sweeney, '38, Over WORC On Compulsory Sickness Insurance Topic, with McGraw, '38, Chairman

JOHN J. KENNELLY, '36

"Congress should be empowered . . ."

On Sunday afternoon, March 1, from 2:00 to 2:45 P. M., the lecture debating teams presented a program over Station WORC, Worcester. This was the first in a series of programs which will continue probably until the close of the school year.

In opening the series, the organization featured a discussion on the question: "Resolved, that the several states should enact legislation requiring compulsory sickness insurance." Edward C. Kennelly, '37, of Morristown, N. J., and Bernard M. Kane, '38, of Quincy, Mass., upheld the affirmative of the proposition. James A. Kinney, '36, of Bethlehem, Pa., and Francis W. Sweeney, '38, argued against the sickness insurance legislation. The chairman of the debate was Joseph A. McGraw, '38, of Albany, N. Y.

The affirmative proposed a plan whereby the general expenses of the sickness insurance would be shared jointly by the state, the employer and the employee. The negative's strong point was the fact that regimentation of medical treatment might lead to socialism.

On Sunday, March 8, at the same time, the second in this series of radio lecture debates will be broadcast from the same station. The question to be debated will be: "Resolved, that Congress should have the power by a two-thirds vote to override a decision of the Supreme Court, declaring an act of Congress unconstitutional." In this debate the chairman will be William J. Kennelly, '36,

WILLIAM J. KENNELLY, '36

"The next speaker will be . . ."

of Glens Falls, N. Y., and the affirmative will be upheld by Bernard J. Malone, '36, of Little Falls, N. Y., and John J. Kennelly, '36, of Glens Falls, N. Y. The speakers for the negative will be John J. Berry, '37, of Newark, N. J., and Justin M. MacCarthy, '36, of New York, N. Y.

Intercollegiate Hour

The absent-minded prize of the current season goes to an athlete at Walla Walla College, who stored his watch in his shoe for safe-keeping during gym-class, and then, jamming his shoe on, went pumping around the campus looking for the fiend who stole his timepiece.

The "old fashioned girl" has come into her own once more with college students, a survey at Catholic University shows. The majority of thirty-five seniors in one class say they will pick the type that dazzled dear old dad for their life companions. Only one voter said that beauty would influence his choice, while eleven declared moral character was the most important element to be looked for.

In recent semester reports, Catholic University students are a bit more philosophical . . . "One can always console oneself with the fact that 'A's' are essentially unconstitutional; a recent survey shows that 'C's' students have the most personal life; and 'F's' men have the best time in college—the short time they are there".

The librarian at Walla Walla College says that it has been her observation that freshmen are not the chief aggressors in breaking library rules and ethics. The ennobling influence of collegiate education meets a setback.

Contracts Signed For Junior Rings

The contract for the Junior Class rings has been signed with the Robbins Co. of Attleboro, Mass., which, in competitive bidding, submitted the most attractive offer. The price of the ring is considerably less than in preceding years, although the same high quality has been maintained.

These rings are now on sale and those desiring to purchase one may see Richard J. Lavigne, '37, day student; John J. O'Neill, '37, or Vincent G. Dougherty, '37.

Selections may be made from two different dies in the color gold which is preferred by the purchaser. The students may choose either an embossed or an engraved style. The ring will have a dark amethyst stone surrounded by the usual inscription.

A class at Milwaukee State Teachers' College has but two enrollees. Both students dare the instructor to apply the normal grade curve to the class—one case where there is strength in lack of numbers.

SNAPSHOT CONTEST

Students are again reminded that entries in the Patcher Snapshot Contest are now being accepted. The prizes to be awarded the best entries consist of five-dollar purses for the best class contributions.

All snapshots should be submitted to William P. Sirignano, Loyola '36, as soon as possible, with the information and title required.

Nine Named To Forensic Finals

Last Contest of Year Set For Friday Evening, March 20

more finalists are Constantine W. Akstens, William N. Wall and Francis W. Sweeney. The honor of the freshman orators will be in the hands of Joseph A. Lowther.

Selected as alternates are William T. Collins and Thomas A. Power of the sophomore class and Paul A. Carberry and Stephen F. Mullen, freshmen.

The judges were Rev. James L. Brennan, S.J., Rev. Joseph D. Ahearn, S.J., and Rev. J. Brian Connors, S.J. The selection of nine speakers instead of the conventional eight was occasioned by the fact that three of the nine had equal ratings from the judges.

The final contest will be held Friday evening, March 20, in Kimball auditorium. Each contestant will deliver a ten-minute oration, which must be original. A purse of twenty-five dollars will be awarded for first place, fifteen dollars for second, and five dollars for third.

The oratorical contest, the outstanding campus forensic event of the year, annually attracts one of the largest audiences to attend an academic function at Holy Cross. Until the opening of Kimball Hall, the event was held in Fenwick, but the new auditorium was used for the first time last year, and proved satisfactory.

PURPLE QUARTET DETERMINED TO OUTDISTANCE JASPERS

Pitt Expected to Wage Contest with Crusaders In Attempt to Defeat Classy Outfit

Amid a glittering array of collegiate stars, the fifteenth annual indoor intercollegiate A. A. A. track and field championships will be held Saturday night in the Madison Square Garden, New York. Invitations have been sent to the forty-five I. C. 4-A colleges, including Alfred, Amherst, Bates, Boston College, Bowdoin, Brown, Colby, Colgate, C. C. N. Y., Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Fordham, Georgetown, Harvard, Haverford, Holy Cross, Lafayette, Lehigh, Maine, Manhattan, M. I. T., Michigan State, N. Y. U., Penn, Princeton, and Yale.

Manhattan, Cornell, Harvard, Columbia, Yale, and N. Y. U. finished in that order in team scoring last year. Prospects of the Jaspers again copping the crown seem to very bright from the performance of their athletes in the various meets held during the present season. However, Cornell, who was runner-up last year, again has a finely-balanced squad, and they do present a serious threat to Manhattan supremacy. A new event, the 600-meter race, has been added to the program, which now includes twelve varsity events, and the freshman medley relay.

Tracksters Lose To Amherst Team

Janiak and Gallogly Break Lord Jeff's Indoor Cage Records

Traveling to Amherst last Wednesday, the Holy Cross track team met defeat at the hands of the Lord Jeffs on the indoor boards of the Pratt cage, by the score of 48-38. The home team captured six first places out of ten, but the two individual records which were created belong to the Purple representatives, Janiak and Gallogly.

Janiak set a new mark for the Amherst cage in the 37-yard dash and Gallogly broke the shot-put standard. Holy Cross was especially weak in the hurdles races and in the quarter mile. Frey and Smead of Amherst took first and second in both high and low hurdles, while Buck and Gleason took third places. The quarter mile weakness may be explained by the fact that Coach Sullivan did not break up his mile-relay team to allow individual members to compete in the quarter. The Purple might have been much stronger in the half mile, too, if some member of the relay quartet had competed in that event.

The relay team ran an eight-lap relay race and set a new record for the Amherst cage. The top-notch quartet, which will make a strong bid for the intercollegiate title, breezed past their opponents and won with ease.

Holy Cross' strongest bid for glory was in the field events. In the shot-put, the Crusaders placed first, second and third, with Gallogly winning and Yablonsky and Lingua finishing in that order. Murray won the weight throw for the Purple, with Murphy taking third place.

In the mile race, O'Connor and Spellane of the Cross finished behind Gowing of Amherst. A third place by Scanlon was the best the Crusaders could obtain in the 220. Gowing became a double-winner when he also captured the half-mile, with Bergen and O'Connell of the Purple close behind.

Holy Cross, while making no attempt to gain a place in team standing, will be represented by the mile relay team. The team will be composed of the same men who formed the quartet which placed third behind Pitt and Manhattan two weeks ago in the National A. A. U. Meet. In the light of the keen rivalry that has sprung up between Manhattan and Holy Cross, coupled with the fact that they are two of the outstanding teams of the year, it is likely that they will meet on Saturday to settle their argument officially.

An exceptionally interesting meet is anticipated this Olympic year. Defending champions include Ben Johnson of Columbia in the 50-meter sprint and running broad jump. Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania, in the 1,500-meters; Manhattan in the 1,600 and 3,200-meter relays, and Tony Geniewicz of Dartmouth in the shotput. In addition, the entry will have such spectacular performers as Eddie O'Brien of Syracuse, the National A. A. U. 400-meter champion; Emile Dubiel, Harvard pole vaulter; Milton Green, Harvard hurdler and jumper, and James H. Hucker, Cornell's 200-meter low hurdles champion.

Cub Quintet Will Oppose Harvard

Brown Team Also Listed On Crusader Frosh Schedule

Games with Harvard and Brown make this a rather busy week for the Freshman basketball team. The Harvard game is scheduled for Wednesday at Cambridge and then, on Saturday, the Yearlings travel to Providence for the encounter with Brown.

With the season rapidly approaching its end, the freshman results have been far from gratifying. However, as a result of their splendid showing against Cushing Academy last Wednesday, the Purple youngsters seem to have taken on new life.

To date the Freshmen have won one game, defeating New England School of Accounting 73-23. Previous to that they had lost to Rhode Island State Frosh 63-36 and dropped a close 35-30 decision to Becker College. Two weeks ago the yearlings encountered Cushing Academy and were again on the short end of a 33-30 score. Except for the Rhode Island State encounter, the Frosh have proved to be of the same caliber as their opposition, playing fine games and losing only by close scores.

COLLEGE BOOKSTORE

The College Bookstore Invites the Patronage of ALL HOLY CROSS MEN

This year the bookstore is equipped with many new features. We cordially invite all students to come to the bookstore where we have on display pennants, banners, portable typewriters, Holy Cross stationery, and many other useful items such as Sheaffer Pens and Sheaffer Pencils. The bookstore is owned and operated by the College.

Seniors Bow to O'Kane Freshmen

O'Kane IV outplayed their rivals for the second time in two days and consequently eked out a one-point victory over Loyola I. The seniors succeeded, soon after the beginning of the game, in securing a slight lead. The teamwork of Burnham and Keefe left the Frosh slightly amazed and by the end of the half the seniors led 13-9. Candela gained the scoring honors by amassing seven points.

SENIORS WAGE FAST CONTEST

Coming back after a defeat the previous day, the Red Raiders of Loyola III trounced their class rivals, Loyola I, to the tune of 31 to 22. The game was a nip and tuck affair during the first half, with the score at the end of the half tied at 14-all. The second half started in the same manner, with the lead changing hands alternately. Winter Carnival Is Huge Success

Twenty Ski Enthusiasts
Take Active Part
In Events

WINNERS ARE GIVEN INTRAMURAL CHARMS

Holy Cross' first winter sports carnival drew to a successful conclusion Saturday with the cross-country, down mountain and ski-jumping contests held at Mount Wachusett. The carnival, directed by Richard P. Boner, '36, opened on Friday with more than twenty enthusiasts participating.

The slalom time races and the 440 and 100-yard ski sprints were held on the campus, but a lack of the proper facilities forced the participants to journey to Mt. Wachusett for the remaining events.

James V. Toner, Jr., '39, won the down-mountain race in one minute and fifty-five seconds, with Kevin P. Donovan, '39, second and David K. Ryan, '37, third. Toner also captured the ski jump with a leap of sixty-nine feet. Donovan was again second and Michael O. Driscoll, '36, was third.

Dick Boner led the slalom racers, while Donovan gained a second place for the third time and George P. Hafeli, '37, was third. Boner was also victorious in the two-mile cross-country, with Robert C. Reidy, '37, second and William F. Laws, '36, third.

The 440-yard dash saw Hafeli cross the finish line first, while Murray J. Devine, '39, was second and George L. Brunner, Jr., '36, placed third. Reidy glided away from the field in the 100-yard sprint, with Donovan and Ryan following in that order.

Doctor John Fallon, head time-keeper, was assisted by John W. O'Boyle, '36, and William J. O'Meara, '36. Rev. Maurice Dullea, S.J., awarded intramural charms to Toner, Donovan, Reidy, Hafeli, and Boner.

The success of this carnival has resulted in arrangements for a ski meet with the Worcester Ski Club for March eighth or sixteenth.

COACH JACK BARRY HAS COMPILED ENVIABLE DIAMOND RECORD AS HOLY CROSS DIRECTOR

Popular Mentor Responsible for Crusaders' Rise to National Baseball Fame

Holy Cross baseball teams have reached such heights during the past decade that at the present time the name has become synonymous with the sport in college diamond circles. To baseball more than any other sport Holy Cross owes its reputation in the field of athletic endeavor. When one considers the fact that in other institutions, what is called the "national pastime," does not even pay for itself, and receives such meager support from the student body that crowds of more than a few hundred are rare, we come to the conclusion that there must be some driving power, some magnetic force, a man of ability and skill, to which this phenomenal success may be attributed.

If you will venture into the shadowy realm of the cage on any afternoon between the middle of February and the time that the weather becomes mild enough for players to work outdoors, you will see this man, Jack Barry, at work. A mere glance at him will give you much insight as ranked as the greatest fielding shortstop of all time, although he was not outstanding in the hitting department. Despite this fact he has developed some powerful hitters during his tenure as coach at Holy Cross. He began his playing career while attend-

VARSITY TENNIS CANDIDATES

All upperclassmen who plan to try out for the Varsity Tennis Team are requested to hand their names in to Captain Harry J. Crowe, Loyola 68, within the coming week. Varsity tennis, more than other sports, offers opportunities for individual talent. Among the numerous enthusiasts on the Hill there should be many eager to engage in intercollegiate competition. It is essential that they do not delay declaration of their intent.

to the reason for his success. Quietly and efficiently he directs the candidates as they go through their paces, giving a word of praise here, correcting a batting stance there. The orderly fashion in which the players go about their work gives an indication of the respect which he receives from all who come in contact with him.

During his playing days, Barry was in a prep school which at that time was attached to Holy Cross. Students at the prep were eligible to play on the varsity, and although it was seldom that anyone managed to make the grade, Barry had the ability to turn the trick. After playing three years he was elected captain of the team in his sophomore year in college. So spectacular was his play that at the close of the season he was signed up by Connie Mack, the ageless manager of the Philadelphia Athletics. For a couple of weeks he sat on the bench and had a chance to get used to his new surroundings in fast company. One day he had a chance to show his stuff when the regular shortstop was injured. He clicked immediately, and from that time on he had a regular position with the A's. His name will always be associated with the famous "hundred thousand dollar" infield.

When Mack broke up his famous club in 1914, Barry, one of the last to go, was sent to Boston. In a few years he became manager of the team and in 1921 brought the Red Sox in second in the American League race. At the close of that season he severed his connections with the big leagues and became coach at Holy Cross. From that time to this he has established an almost unbelievable record in the ranks of college baseball.

In his first year as coach the Purple team won twenty-nine games and dropped two—quite an auspicious beginning. The following year he proved that this was no fluke when Holy Cross chalked up twenty-one victories against four losses. During his first five years the diamond wizard hung up a record that boasted of one hundred and twenty-five games won and ten lost. During that time his average was recorded as winning twenty-five out of twenty-seven games a year for five successive years.

For the past fifteen years Barry has been coaching Holy Cross teams and during that time his teams have won three hundred and four games while losing but fifty-one. Not only has he compiled this impressive record, and produced teams that have swamped all collegiate opposition, but many of his pupils have gone up to the majors. During the past fifteen years Holy Cross has been represented by more successful players in the big leagues than any other college in the country. Blondy Ryan, Al Neimic, Joe Mulligan, Ownie Carroll, Doc Gautreau, Joe Morrissey, and Jim Shevlin, were all coached by Barry, and they all have been connected with the big leagues. This is truly a record for any coach to shoot at.

Much of his success may be traced to his ability to handle the fellows. He realized that the right remark at the right time will do much in improving that player. With his knowledge of human nature acquired over a long period of time, he is equipped to deal with all kinds of personalities. The players all respect him, and no bit of advice ever goes unheeded. Although never losing his head in the heat of the game, he is always out to win. Every trick of the game is known to him, and those who witnessed last year's epic struggles with Dartmouth will always remember that ninth inning as a true exhibition of baseball strategy.

Despite the fame that he has acquired as a player, manager and

PRO OFFERS TO CROSS PLAYERS

Three stars of the undefeated Purple football team have received offers to play with the New York Giants next fall. Captain Nick Morris, backfield ace; Pete Lingua, tackle; and Phil Flanagan, guard, are the recipients of this unusual honor. This is a particular tribute to the merits of the Holy Cross players, for the Giants usually seek their recruits among the Fordham squad. The players have not replied as yet.

coach, he has always remained quiet and retiring. Very few of the students ever get to know the man who has placed Holy Cross on the pinnacle as far as baseball is concerned. Quietly and unobtrusively he goes about his work of making teams and individual stars, saying little and accomplishing much. Admired and respected as a man and as a coach, Jack Barry begins his sixteenth season at Holy Cross.

VETERANS AND SOPHOMORES IN BATTING PRACTICE

Coach Jack Barry's call for fielding candidates was answered by twenty-seven men last Saturday in the Loyola cage. Nick Morris, first baseman, Bob Daughters, third, were among fifteen infield men reporting. "Speck" Kelley, diminutive shortstop, was sent because of a cold. Canty Hobin, varsity outfielders, responded to the first call. Indoor batting practice, which began immediately, continued on Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday afternoons during March. Coach Barry hopes to begin his charges outdoors by at least the beginning of April. The opening game, with the Boston Red Sox, scheduled for the ninth of that month.

Second base, left vacant by Moriarty's graduation, presents a difficult problem. Two sophomore ball players, Charlie Brucato and Bartolomeo, are among the promising prospects. Moriarty's brilliant record and the important position will make it doubly hard to make a suitable replacement. Ed Britton, a determined bid for the outfield position, but he may encounter stiff opposition from the sophomore hopes. Walter Bracken and Liam O'Connell are both new to varsity competition but they turned in excellent records with last year's freshman team. Joe Conway, ill in spring, is an outfielder who may prove to be one of the nine regulars.

Coach Barry was unable to be present at Saturday's practice because of a bad cold, but he is expected to be around again tomorrow. In the coach's absence, Captain Joe Conway directed the players. Roy Bruninghaus, veteran hurler, worked out for over an hour, serving up balls to the reporting candidates.

SPORTS SURVEY

By LOU LAWRENCE, '38

Saturday will witness one of the most fiercely-contested of all the indoor track meets, when athletes from 32 colleges converge on Madison Square Garden for the annual I.C. 4-A championships. Unlike other board carnivals, individual performances here count less than team showings and every college on the entry list has hopes of capturing the valued team trophy. Favored to win for the third successive year, the Jaspers of Manhattan base their chances on two relay teams, 1,600 and 3,200 meters; Bill Eipela, 6 feet 4 inch high jumper; Bill Ray and Lou Burns in the mile, and Harry Wheeler, star weight thrower. Though the Light Blue trailed Harvard and Cornell in the four-cornered meet, Yale is regarded as a serious threat to the New Yorkers. Several men who will score heavily in such a wide open meet, though lacking sufficient team support to be of much avail in a smaller meet, threaten to amass enough points to capture the diadem from the Green runners.

With less than two weeks of basketball left, Long Island U. looms as the leading team of the East, if not the entire country. The Bees closed an undefeated season with a win over Gallaudet. In the Eastern Intercollegiate League, Columbia, boasting of eight straight victories, is certain to retire the league trophy. The race in the Eastern Conference, however, presents a different aspect, with Pittsburgh waging a bitter battle with its city rival, Carnegie Tech.

Little Rhode Island State College seems to have a monopoly on the record for throwing the 35-pound weight. In the National A.A.U. championships, Irving Folsom, Jr., wiped out his former teammate, Henry Dreyer's, world record with a heave of 58 feet one and one-half inches. Dreyer, competing in a special event at the Harvard Quadrangular Meet, eclipsed this week-old record by throwing the weight 4 1/2 inches past the 58-foot mark.

While the Harvard Quadrangular Meet held the spotlight over the weekend, Frank Nordell, the surprise runner of the N.Y.A.C. was giving indication that he is very much in the national picture and is a serious contender to the Venzke monopoly by taking two first places in the Metropolitan Championships at New York. Frank won both the 1500-meter run and the 300-meter steeplechase.

PURPLE PENNINGS

By JIM COLLIER, '37

To the Editor of the TOMAHAWK:

The Outing Club, through the medium of the TOMAHAWK, wishes to express its appreciation to the one man responsible for the Holy Cross Winter Carnival. This is the second outstanding event which he has initiated for the benefit of the school. Six years ago, a new era in sports was ushered in when he inaugurated intramural athletics at Holy Cross. The climax was reached with the highly-successful winter carnival in which twenty-two pioneers participated, and which promises to be the highlight of each winter season atop Pakachog.

The Outing Club, with the student body, are deeply indebted to Rev. Maurice Dullea, S.J., for interest and cooperation in promoting the first winter carnival.

In an outstanding event on the I.C. 4-A card on Saturday night, the mile relay team will make its final bid for the indoor intercollegiate mile relay diadem. Manhattan, as usual, will provide the bulk of the opposition. The Jaspers will not only be fighting to gain the mile relay crown, but they will also be spurred on by the desire to contribute to the team total, as Manhattan will be out to maintain the I.C. 4-A title. Although the quartet has performed admirably, the loss of "Moe" Feeley is still felt greatly. The lone junior was one of the best laid off men that Bart Sullivan has ever turned out, and the task of filling his shoes is proving a difficult one. Hoping that, with the thought of national fame spurring them on, the Sullivanmen will take the Jaspers in this all-important race.

Cage Pickups—

Memories of football crop up as Bob Daughters, Nick Morris, Jack O'Donnell, and Charley Brucato go through their paces. Incidentally, the Milford lad wags a mean bat, and he seems to have put on some weight during the winter months.

"Skip" Walsh, a standout in his freshman year, who faded last year, sure had his eye on the ball Saturday, as he filled the cage with resounding clouts. Roy Bruninghaus was on the mound for more than an hour, serving them up, and seemed to be in excellent shape. Bob Daughters put on his best Sunday smile when looking at the "birdie," but then changed his mind and put on a more solemn look. Bill O'Connell, one of Bart Sullivan's coming stars, directed the track for the day, and directed his talents toward seeking a diamond berth.

Beavenites Down Frosh Quintet

Beaven II increased its league standing by downing Fenwick IV in a free scoring contest, 30-23. In the opening minutes of the game, the Juniors assumed an early lead by their brilliant play and they held it to the very end of the contest. Due to the splendid play of Dempsey, who scored ten points in the first half, Beaven led their freshman rival, 18-6. During the second half, the Frosh outscored their junior opponents, but they were unable to overcome Beaven's early lead. Dempsey led his teammates and opponents with a total of twelve points. Had he played as well in the second half as he did in the first the game might have been a rout. Ed

Clark led Fenwick with seven points. In the last minutes Fenwick tried in vain to overcome Beaven's lead.

The Bridge Contests will begin on Wednesday, March 4 (note the date). The contest will include both Auction and Contract. The rubbers will be played off on the ensuing Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. For the scheduled dates consult the bulletins, either in the Recreation Room or on the Bulletin Board in Kimball Hall.

The contests in ping pong and pool will begin soon. Consult the bulletin boards for the dates. The Intramural Office would appreciate it if the contestants would make arrangements for meeting and playing off their games as soon as possible to avoid undue delay.

Intramural Charms will be awarded to the victors in all the contests.

Leading Worcesterites Victors

A smoothly-functioning Worcester '36-'37 quintet, tied for the league leadership with the powerful Alumni II squad, defeated Alumni III, by the score of 36 to 21. The Worcesterites led at the end of the half by the score of 25-12. A whirlwind passing attack, in which every man was a potential scorer, enabled Worcester to roll up this lead. In the second half, due to the fine defensive work of Wiest and Trunfio, the game was far more interesting and closely contested. For Worcester the team as a whole stood out, every man shining in his own light. However, Shields and Lavin were outstanding. Trunfio, McMahan, and Wiest starred for the Alumnites.

Trunfio, perhaps the most outstanding guard in the league, was the high scorer of the game.

ALUMNI SCORES VICTORY, 35-17

In the first game Saturday, Alumni I easily defeated O'Kane III. The score was 35 to 17. The game was clean throughout, with only seven fouls being called. At the quarter, Alumni I held a slim 4 to 0 lead. At the half, they led 11 to 6. However, in the last half they opened up with a fine display of passing and completely subdued their freshman rivals. McDonald and O'Connor of the Alumni team led the scoring with 14 and 11 points respectively. Marcelino and Gallagher played good ball for the O'Kane quintet. Kevin 'Brute' Rowse, in the game for a few minutes, displayed a classy form of attack.

LOYOLA II DEFEATS III

In an inter-family quarrel, the Loyola II forces downed the Red Raiders by a 34 to 15 score. The boys from the top floor were no match for their smooth-passing classmates. At half time, Loyola II led 16 to 3. The Loyola II team continued its fast pace in the last half and more than doubled its score. McCartin of the winners tallied 12 points, while Driscoll scored eight.

FROSH-SOPHS MEET B. C. DEBATING TEAM

and John J. Daunt of the freshman class.

A debate with M.I.T. is being planned in the near future. It will be between the freshmen of the two colleges only and will be held on the Hill. The question will be, "Resolved, that the Federal Government should adopt the policy of equalizing educational opportunity throughout the nation by means of annual grants to the several states for public elementary and secondary education". The affirmative of this question will be upheld by Daniel J. O'Connell, '39, Edwin F. J. Healy, '39, and Daniel F. Harrington, Jr., '39.

INTOWN SQUAD DOWNS RIVALS

Continuing its championship form, the co-leading Worcester Senior-Junior five swept the remaining obstacle in the path of their goal in downing the strong Beaven II quintet. Sensing that this game would place them in a tie for first place in the league leadership, the Worcesterites gave their all in this last contest. The team co-ordination, which has characterized their playing in every game of the season, was a deciding factor in the victory. Sullivan of the Worcester team led the scoring with seven points. Lavin of the same team scored five. The victors led at the half, 14 to 7. Having played and won two games last week, the Worcester team goes into a tie for first place with Alumni II, who did not don their togs last week. This means these teams will contend for the league leadership sometime in the near future.

O'Kane III's Five Victim Of Dorm

The Delirians are in stride again. Straining at the tether and raring to go, after an inspiring pep-talk by their manager, fiery Andy McFadden, and inspired by the silence of their ferocious captain, Jim "Points" Gavin, the vastly superior Delirians outplayed, outpassed and outscored a game O'Kane III quintet by the tell-tale score of 52 to 7. The Delirians, who have not yet reached the apex of their playing ability, in this game showed a small part of the brilliant natural ability that they possess and which was lacking in many of their crucial games. Due to the remarkable shooting ability of "eagle-eyed" Leo Fittabile and the high-scoring twins, Jim Gavin and "Wee Willie" Lee, the Delirians were out front at the end of the third quarter by the score of 39 to 2. McGuane was the outstanding defensive player on the floor.

TOP BEAVEN SQUAD EKES OUT VICTORY IN THRILLING BATTLE

In one of the closest games of the current season, the Beaven III quintet downed their downstairs rivals, Beaven II, 26 to 25. The score at the half was 12 to 10 in Beaven II's favor. The battle continued to be close in the second half, with the final outcome in doubt up to the final whistle. The issue was final when Ed Dougherty of Beaven III, with 10 seconds to go, dropped in a foul shot and gave his team the victory. Dempsey of Beaven II and O'Donnell of Beaven III led the scoring with nine points apiece. Wiest of the victors scored seven. The Beaven III victory was helped by their ability to capitalize on their foul shots. Although the "Toppers" won this game, they still remain behind both Beaven I and II in the league standing.
